

Expression of Interest by Smallholder Farmer to be Member of NARI Council

The National Agricultural Research Institute (NARI) is the prime organization established by an Act of Parliament (NARI Act 1996) for conducting and fostering applied and development oriented research in the agriculture and rural development sectors in Papua New Guinea. Besides, NARI is responsible for providing analytical, diagnostic and advisory services and up-to-date information to the agriculture sector in PNG.

Section 7.1 (f) of the NARI Act 1996 provides for one smallholder farmer from the Southern Region to be member of the NARI Council. This appointment will be made by the National Executive Council on the basis of recommendation by the Minister for Higher Education, Research, Science and Technology.

We hereby invite expression of interest from smallholder farmers, for the Minister's consideration. Please forward your expression of interest with a copy of your bio-data so as to reach us on the following address.
